TENANTS THE SLAVES OF THE LANDLOEDS. This power, possessed by the landlords over the ver lives of their tenants, has been used to make them the veriest slaves to their will, and has tended to rende the franchise conferred on them a " mockery, a spare, an a delusion." The result has been that, so far as Parliam ary representatives are concerned, seldom have an been elected from Ulster, where the tenants have mor to lose than in the other Provinces, except the nomines of the landlords. Should the tenant-farmers appear in clined to support an opposition candidate, then the no tice to quit or intimation of a raise of rent is brough into requisition if they refuse to vote as their landlor bids them, however contrary it be to their convictions and this in itself is a galling bondage, calculated to de base and degrade. He and his posse comitate of balliffs and understrappers take their stand a the polls to be witnesses of the obedience or diso bedience paid to the ukase that has gone forth What have been the consequences of this state of vassalage! The reduction, within little more than 20 years, of the population of Ireland from up ward of 8,000,000 to little more at present than 5,000,000, whereas it should have been 12,000,000; the ne cessity for the suppression of revolt by the suspension of the "habeas corpus" and the exercise of the strong arm of the law; the exile and imprisonment of men who ceasing to hope for redress at the hands of the Govern ment of the injustice under which the people suffer risked their liberty and life to sunder the connection b tween Great Britain and Ireland; the tacit sympath with such efforts, however wild and chimerical they may appear to us, and the sullen discontent at the existing state of things which pervades the masses of the people while the bullet or the dagger of the assassin often find its way to the heart of the oppressor.

THE GLADSTONE LAND BILL.

The efforts of British Ministers and Parliaments to ap ply an adequate remedy to the iniquities of "Irish lane iordism" have hitherto proved abortive. The measure however, introduced by the present Premier ha just passed the House of Commons, and this, should it receive the sanction of the House of Lords, as it doubtiess will, is likely to go a great length toward putting an end to landlord rapacity and despotism. Its provisions regulate all tenancies-at-will, and they are, as has been already stated, by far the most numerous, while the "Ulster Custom" is recognized and legalized, with the operations of which it will not, how-ever, interfere so long as landlords and tenants are mutually satisfied; nor will it disturb existing contracts or leases, provided their conditions are not inconsistent with the objects it has in view. Its retrespective scope is, however, its essentially important feature. In all cases where the landlord desires either to eject the tenant or increase his rent, the latter can claim compensation for improvements made by himself or his predeces sors for 20 years retrospectively, and for permanent improvements and buildings irrespective of date, as well as for the injury he may sustain by the loss of his farm; all such matters to be adjusted by an arbitrator mutually chosen, or a court of law to be established for adjudicating upon them. It further provides for the purchase of his holding by the tenant, giving him, under certain circumstances, facili-ties for doing so by means of a Treasury loan of twothirds the requisite amount-a clause in the bill which thus forms the nucleus of a peasant proprietary. Its effect will, therefore, be to deprive the landlord of the power to arbitrarily raise the rents, or unjustly interfere with the domestic concerns or the religion and politics of his tenants. If he wish to possess their land he must do so at the expense of his pocket; he cannot do so, as he formerly did, at the sole cost of a notice to quit, leaving the people to die by the wayside, or starve in the workhouse. The funds with which he must supply them will suffice to place them, should they emigrate, in another country with fair prospects for the future. Neither will they be likely to carry with them that bitter feeling of hostility toward the British Government which has, up to this time, been so characteristic of the Irish emigrant. This measure will give security where uncer-tainty existed, and establish order where lawlessness prevailed. The landlord will find his powers abridged in so far only as they were arbitrary and unjust, and the tenant will feel himself protected by the strong arm of the law in the enjoyment of the fruits of his industry. Such are some of the results anticipated from the bill by journalists and publicists who have been the friends of the tenant-farmers.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The Parepa troupe are to sing "Oberon" next Saturday evening at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and then break up. The reconstructed company which Mr. Hess is to command next season will have Mrs. Caroline Richings-Bernard for prima denna.

The operatic performance at the Union and children, will take place next Saturday evening. "The Elixir of Love" will then be presented by Miss A. Hall, Miss Ronconi, and Messrs. Ronconi, Lotti, and Nilsson may be expected about the middle of September. Mr. Strakosch's intention has been to bring her forward in concerts, rather than risk the dangers of an opera season, but we are glad to hear that a different arrangement is in contemplation. Mr. Fisk has made offers for a lease of the fair Swede for the first ten or twenty nights, with the purpose of bringing her for-ward in opera, and though the experiment would probably be financially disastrons we devontly trust-of course in the interests of art—that his offers may be accepted. What a pity he did not keep to the contract he made with Nilsson a year ago! He engaged her then for much lower terms than Strakosch is to pay.

It is announced that Parepa and the Boston Handel and Haydn Society have been engaged for the New-York Musical Festival. This, however, is not true at least as yet. Negotiations are pending, and it is probable that the famous choral society of the Hub will send 400 or 500 of its members under Carl Zerrahn, to be anguented by the addition of some of our local choruses, and perhaps societies from other cities. If this arrange ment can be made Parepa will join them in the production of two or three orntorios, with Mr. Whitney, the Boston basso, and probably Mrs. Seguin and Mr. Nord-blom, both of whom are said to excel in this description of music. It is mortifying to think that we must send to Boston for a really good chorus; but if the Handel and Hayda Society come, we shall hear the best oratorio singing that has ever been heard in New-York.

PEOBABLE WIFE MURDER IN THE SIXTH WARD. Yesterday Lawrence Costello, a blind beggar, living at No. 48 Mulberry-st., called at the Frankin-st. Police Station, and informed Capt. Kennedy that his wife, Mary Ann, had been beaten by some unknown per, sons, during his absence, and that he feared she was in a dangerous condition. Capt. Kennedy went to the house, and learned from the neighbors that the only person who had beaten Mrs. Costelle was her husband. They said that he was in the habit of coming home very often under the influence of liquor, and that at such times he would brutally beat his wife with a stick, and kick her with his heavy boots. The worsen whether her had feee and brutany beat as wife with a stick, and kick her with his heavy boots. The woman, who bore on her head, face and body marks of the brutal treatment she had received, was in a partially insensible condition, and was removed to Bellevue Hospital. In the meantime Capt, Kennedy ar-rested Costello, and Justice Hogan committed him to the Tomas to swalt the result of his wife's injuries. Coroner Keeman will take the ante-mortem statement of the wo-man, should she recover sufficiently to enable him to do so.

The act incordorating the Company which instituted the Crystal Palace Exhibition in Reserveir square in 1853 authorized a capital of $500,000, which was subsequently extended to $500,000. The incorporators thought this would be sufficient for their purpose, but from the first they suffered for lack of funds to make the Exhifirst they suffered for lack of funds to make the Exhibition what it should and might have been. The Industrial Company, who propose to open in 1872 the perpetual Industrial Exhibition, have a capital (all subscribed for) of $2.00,000, with authority to extend it to $7.00,000, Such a sum, in the hands of intelligent directors, can accomplish vast results. The nearer the heart of the city and the center of trade and travel this enterprise can be located, the more pecuniary benefit the city will derive from it. Whatever sid the municipal authorities are able to extend in providing an appropriate site for the Exhibition is likely to be far more than repaid by the increased floating population which it will constantly attract. The Company of 1853 did well, and drew many thousands of visitors; but with more ample capital, the number of visitors thus drawn from all parts of our country and the world would have been vastly increased.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY .- The establishment of Messrs, A. Runrill & Co., successors to the old house of E. stebions & Co., has been removed to No. 273 Broadway, corner of Chambers st., where may be found a full assortment of sterling silver goods. They also make American watches a specialty.

THE ASSEMBLY IN A THEATER-EXCURSION TO

CAPE MAY-SUNDAY IN THE PULPITS. PHILADEMPHIA, May 30.-Mr. Wilkinson, in his Dance of Modern Society, takes occasion to suggest the unlikely spectacle of a Christian public, in an endeaver to redeem the drama, decorously filing en masse into Wallack's of an evening, and compelling the man agement to a sanctified programme. That author doubtless thought the thing impossible; but like many impossible things in our age, it has been done. by a headstrong and irresponsible Christian public, as Mr. Wilkinson suggested, but by that part of the community led by the very Sanhedrim itself. Not to put too fine a point upon it, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church went to the theater on Friday and tried Mr.
Wilkinson's experiment; and sooth to say, the experiment was a perfect success. The drams was purified, the theater revolutionized, and the three Chartian ever saint or critic could wish. The thing was done on

RECOVERY OF STOLEN BONDS.

Two of Col. Whitley's detectives, acting on information received at the Secret Service office, proceded to Stamford, Conn., on Sunday and arrested John Kandle and George Marshall on a charge of having stolen bonds in their possession. After the capture the detectives found, in a value carried by them, 15 $1,000 5-20 bonds, one numbered 12,200, issued to Betsey Platt, and 14 numbered 22,314, 22,293, 22,910, 22,331, 22,911, 22,299, 1,202, 22,512, 1,303, 1,304, 22,931, 22,930, and 1,350, issued to Daniel Gale. Also, one $1,000 7 per cent bond of the West New-Jersey Central Railroad Co., No. 480; three certificates of 20 shares of the South Camden Perry Co., numbered 48, 11 and 138; one share of the City Insurance Co. of Philadelphia, No. 178; one certificate of the Consolidated Insurance Co. of Philadelphia, No. 176; one certificate of 50 shares of the South Brooklyn and Bergen-st. Railroad Co., No. 68—amounting altogether to $25,500. The prisoners were brought to New York yesterday morning and lodged in Ludiow-st. Jail to await examination. Kandie and Marshail were witnesses for the prosecution against Ethelred Woodward, convicted last Thursday for sciling to these very persons $1,000 worth of counterfeit fractional entrency. After the trial Kandie represented that he was geing to Camdea, N. It is asserted that the prisoners have been in the habit of personating Secret Service detectives.

Mrs. Wilson has Saturday afternoon, at the age of 46. Mrs. whison has long suffered from a very painful malady—cancer—and her death was not unexpected. She returned from Washington with her husband some days ago in a very feeble condition. The press of Boston is united in warm expressions of admiration for the deceased as a noble Christian woman, having many rare qualities of mind and heart. She was a beloved and respected member of society, and many friends testify to her self-sacrificing deeds of benevolence, particularly among veterans of the late war.

He ultimately resigned his office, and was succeeded by Vice-President Guzman Bianco, now again, by the success of the revolution which he has been conducting, at the head of the Venezuelan Republic.

BOOTH'S THEATER.

The large audience that assembled last evening at Booth's Theater enjoyed greatly, and applauded heartily, Mr. Charles Gayler's comedy of "Taking the Chances." The piece made a success, and Mr. Mc-Vicker, who played the chief part in it, com-mended himself to the sincere regard of all who recognize and admire good acting. "Taking the Chances" is a three-act comedy, introducing nine characters. The scene is New-York. The action passes entirely at a gentleman's house at Washington Heights. The characters are people of this country and this time. The dialogue is smooth, characteristic, and frequently enlivened by sharp touches of satire. The play shows a young New-Hampshire lad come to New-York, found his female cousin beset by two for-tune-hunters, and, despite his rough ways, contrived to outwit them, and to win the girl's affections. Mr. Me-Vicker played his part of the "Yankee Boy" exceedingly well. He was mature in sppearance, indeed, but in spirit and in execution he was the exact New-England lad. There was a great sweetness in his acting—the sweetness of a temperament which blends kindness of heart with purity of purpose and a shrewd knowledge of the world, acquired rather by intuition than by experience. Mr. McVicker was the original of this part, in 1856, when the piece was first done at Burton's Theater (Chambers-st., and not the Winter Garden, as we inadvertently stated a few days since). And it ought to be considered to the redit of this very natural actor that he was the first person to represent the true New-Englander-the Yankee, that is, who has since replaced the monstrosity which used to be admired in Yankee Hill, and which has since been replaced by the Asa Trenchard of Jafferson, and kindred personations. In humor, in shrewdness. in sentiment, in intonation, in the indescribable cuteness, and in the simplicity of manner-born of simplicity of intention—which mark the New-Englander Mr. McVicker showed himself a true and a practical artist. We have not space, at the moment, to dwell upon special features of excellence in this personation, but we must be content to record a genuine success in general language. Mr. McVicker was called out-by manifestly genuine applause-at the end of each act; and at the end of the play Mr. Gayler, the author, was also called, and both Mr. McVicker and Mr. Gayler made brief and pleasant speeches. The cast of parts included Mr. Anderson, Mr. Sheridan, Mr. Penno, Mr. Piton, Mr. Jacques, Miss Morant, Mrs. Seymour, and Miss DeBar. "Taking the Chances" will be played every with the played every wit
